A Great Parade

PARADE IS INSPIRING—CATHOLIC DIGNITARIES REVIEW HOLY NAME PROCESSION.

Marchers Number 6,000—President Taft, at White House, an Interested Spectator—Baltimoreans in Line.

Crowds on Sidewalks Along Pennsylvania Avenue—Exercises Held at the Monument.

In solid columns, eight abreast, 6,000 members of the Holy Name Society of the archdiocese of Baltimore marched along Pennsylvania avenue Sunday afternoon as a public protest against profanity and immorality.

The presence of the apostolic delegate and other dignitaries of the Catholic Church lent impressiveness to the demonstration, and the spectacle on the Monument grounds, when the marchers gathered to hear commendation by priest and layman, was inspiring.

Along the Avenue from the Peace Monument to 17th street thousands of spectators watched the parade, and by their silence paid an eloquent tribute to the purposes of the Society. At the head of each parish delegation marched a standardbearer, carrying a religious banner, while each crusader waved a small pennant bearing the title of the Order. Strict military discipline was observed and the bands played nothing but patriotic and sacred airs.

According to those clergymen who had reviewed similar processions recently in Pittsburgh, Boston and other cities, the Washington parade, including the delegations from Baltimore and Alexandria, was the most notable.

President Sees Parade.

President Taft and members of his family witnessed a portion of the parade from a north window of the White House. As each band passed the Executive Mansion "Hail to the Chief" was played.

In the reviewing party gathered on a balcony on the second floor of the New Willard Hotel were Archbishop Diomed Falconio, apostolic delegate; Rt. Rev. Owen B. Corrigan, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Baltimore; Mgr. James F. Mackin, pastor of St. Paul's Church, and Mgr. Thos. S. Lee, pastor of St. Matthew's Church. Each battalion as it passed the reviewing point saluted the prelates by dipping its banners, and in response Archbishop Falconio doffed his hat and bowed.

Delegation from Baltimore.

The band of the Second Regiment, D. C. National Guard, headed the parade. The crusaders from Baltimore were given the place of honor at the head of the procession. Six parishes were represented in the delegation, with Dr. J. B. Gorman as marshal. Next in line was the delegation from Alexandria, of which William Desmond was marshal. Rev. W. J. Kane led the platoon representing the St. John's Society of Frederick, Md.

Members of St. Cyprian's Parish, 700 strong, led the second division, with their own band. The colored men acquitted themselves with honor, under the direction of E. Brown, marshal.

The third division, headed by Fessinger's Band, was next. It included St. Joseph's Parish delegation, Richard J. Curtin, marshal, and the Holy Name Society, led by William T. Kelly. Then came the sturdy veterans from the Soldiers' Home. The sight of these 50 venerable soldiers, marching with a proud spirit, caused a ripple of applause, the only outburst of cheering along the whole line.

The fourth division, headed by Miener's Band, was composed of the following: St. Martin's Parish, with M. J. Shea as marshal; St. Anthony's Parish, with W. J. McCloskey as marshal; St. Matthew's Parish, with Thos. B. Huyck as marshal, and St. Stephen's Parish, with Harry Crompton as marshal.

With the First Regiment Band of the District National Guard leading, the fifth division was composed as follows: St. Peter's Parish, with Geo. F. Davis as marshal, and the Holy Comforter Parish, with William L. Kuell as marshal.

In the sixth and final division were St. Dominic and St. Vincent de Paul Parishes, with Michael Shugrue as marshal. The Soldiers' Home Band, with Prof. Zimmerman as leader, was at its head.

Parishes All Represented.

It was a fact noted by many that not a single parish in which the Society is represented failed to contribute as large a delegation as it had promised, and many were far larger than was at first thought possible. The first estimates of the numbers of the marchers were therefore revised, and it is now believed there were more than 6,000 in line.

The line of march embraced B street northwest from East Capitol street, Pennsylvania avenue to 15th street, thence past the White House to 17th street, and to the Monument grounds.

The parades halted when the Monument grounds were reached, and at signal from the chief marshal ranks were broken, and in orderly array the hosts came to attention at 4:15 o'clock, facing the small platform where the speakers were assembled. It is said the outdoor meeting was the largest ever held under the auspices of a religious society in the National Capital.

Expressing the clerical view of the event, Rev. Father Fitzgerald, the first speaker, said:

"There is an inspirational side to this event which should be emphasized. By the great parade you have given a public expression and a public avowal of your Christian faith. You have declared your allegiance to Jesus Christ."

Reminded of Army's Return.

"On the historic Avenue, where many a magnificent pageant has been held, you have marched to-day in the cause of keeping the name of God free of blasphemy and profanity. I cannot but think of that great march 45 years ago, when the returning Union soldiers paraded in victory down this same boulevard."

"We are here in sight of the beautiful White House, where lives the Chief Executive of this Nation, chosen by a vote of the people. We express our faith not only in our religion, but in the destiny of this Republic. We know it rests upon authority, for without authority, recognized by the people, there is nothing. Without it we may look for rapine, disorder, disintegration."

From the layman's point of view, Michael I. Weller expressed gratification at the demonstration, saying in part:

"Reverend clergy, ladies and gentlemen: Here, at the Nation's Capital, on the banks of the majestic Potomac, in the shadow of the monumental shaft erected in honor of our immortal patriot, George Washington, this grand Catholic demonstration of the Holy Name Societies has been appropriately inaugurated, upon this Sunday afternoon, to give living and forcible expression to our faith in the Son of God and our firm determination to be constantly mindful of the respect due to His holy name, with the fervent pledge that our lives shall always conform to His admonitions."

Tribute to Early Pilgrims.

"Two hundred and seventy-six years have now passed since that small company of Catholic pilgrims left England, braving the dangers of the deep, in the wintry season, on small, fragile vessels, for conscience sake, to found a new permanent home on these shores; that they and their co-religionists of other races, who followed, have borne themselves with credit in the face of every impartial historian; their deeds speak eloquently for the cause we advocate—loyalty and devotion pro Deo et Patria."

"Let us then conclude by sending a message of affectionate greeting and congratulations across the Atlantic to our venerable leader and father, Pope Pius X, the prisoner of the Vatican, from his faithful children, gathered in mass meeting at the Capital of the great American Republic."

Benediction by Archbishop Falconio concluded the exercises. The following acted as aids to the grand marshal: T. Millard Hanson, William Fingles, John F. Kernan and Bernard J. Flynn, Baltimore; Dr. Gorman, H. F. McFarland and Thomas E. Dyson, Alexandria; Joseph P. Burg, James F. McHugh, Dr. H. J. Crosson, C. H. Howard, Joseph I. Weller, William F. Downey, George Melling, W. J. Frizzell, Thomas Rooney, Andrew Schwartz, F. J. Gunning, James A. McDevitt, R. Harrison Johnson, James F. Shea, Dr. R. T. Holden, John Zable, Maurice Fitzgerald, Dr. Louis Johnson, H. I. Weller, James F. Gill, M. D. Shaefer, Thomas M. Quill, John J. Higgins, P. F. Nelligan, S. R. Golibart, Joseph D. Sullivan, P. C. J. Treanor, John R. Smith, William Griffin, D. M. Stanton, John B. Irwin, J. M. Burns, P. J. Conlon, Daniel A. Edwards, William H. De Lacy, Michael Heister, Dr. Charles P. Neill, J. J. O'Dea and Thomas W. Short.

Colorbearers at the head of the line were P. T. Niland and James D. Flynn.

THE ELECTIONS

DEMOCRATS SWEEP THE COUNTRY.

Republicans Thrown From Earth—A Lesson to the Republican Party.

The election last Tuesday will no doubt be a lesson to the Republican party. The House is Democratic and the Senate almost gone.

Champ Clark probably will succeed Speaker Cannon.

Democrats gain eight seats in Senate.

Dix Governor of New York by 65,000.

Wilson carries New Jersey by 25,000.

Harmon triumphs in Ohio by 60,000.

Foss Governor in Massachusetts by 32,987.

Baldwin wins in Connecticut by 3,500.

John W. Kern will succeed Senator Beveridge.

Democrats gain two Representatives in Maryland.

Chicago goes Democratic by 25,000.

Democrats gain three Representatives and a United States Senator in West Virginia.

Democrats gain a Senator in Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Nebraska and probably Missouri and Montana.

Consolation for Republicans.

Tener elected Governor of Pennsylvania by 20,000.

Bass elected Governor of New Hampshire by 5,000.

Gov. Pothier re-elected in Rhode Island by 900.

Osborne Governor of Michigan by 40,000.

Hooper, fusion candidate, carried Tennessee by 20,000.

Kansas, North Dakota, California, Wisconsin and Minnesota named Republican Governors.

Speaker Cannon re-elected by increased plurality.

Payne and Dalzell also returned to Congress.

Republican Senators assured from Delaware, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The sweep of the political tidal wave which rolled over the country Tuesday is further emphasized by additional returns and revised figures at hand to-day.

The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives will be at least 42, and possibly more, as compared with the present Republican majority of 43.

Added to the reversal of the lower branch of Congress, the returns show the Republican majority of 26 in the United States Senate rapidly approaching the vanishing point, although the Republicans are now reasonably assured of 48 Senators, or one more than the necessary majority, with a number of States still in doubt.

Changes Presented.

The most notable changes are summed up as follows:

In Ohio a Democratic Legislature has been elected, insuring a Democratic successor to Senator Dick, Republican, and the plurality of Gov. Harmon is increased to 60,000.

The West Virginia Legislature is Democratic and will elect a Democratic Senator to succeed Senator Scott, Republican.

In Indiana the Legislature, which chooses a successor to Senator Beveridge, is in doubt, with the Democrats claiming a majority of 12 and the Republicans maintaining that Beveridge will have a small margin.

Iowa is still uncertain, with both sides claiming the Governorship.

The Pennsylvania Legislature is safely Republican and will elect a Republican successor to Senator Oliver.

Washington has a Republican Legislature, which appears to insure the election of Miles Poindexter to the Senate. The Utah Legislature, which elects a United States Senator, also is Republican, while that of Montana is in doubt.

Warner defeated in Maryland.

Beveridge in Indiana.

West Virginia loses Senator Scott.

New York loses Depew, and a Democrat will succeed him.

It is a landslide.

Congressman B. C. Slemp, in the Virginia district, is no doubt elected.

LICENSE RENEWAL.

Resolved to Stand Together, Believing Suspension Was But Temporary.

By unanimous vote the members of the Washington Division of the United Order of True Reformers, at a largely attended meeting in True Reformers' Hall, 12th and U streets northwest, Sunday evening, decided to stand together and await developments.

Word had been received from W. P. Burrell, secretary of the Grand Fountain at Richmond, Va., that the suspension here of the business of the order, due to a suspension of its license by the insurance departments of both Virginia and the District of Columbia, was but temporary, and that within a short time matters would be adjusted and business renewed.

W. R. Griffin, chief of the Washington division, presided at the meeting, and addresses were made by J. H. Hunter, of Pittsburgh; Rev. J. W. Howard, pastor of Zion Baptist Church; Rev. W. D. Jarvis, pastor of the New Bethel Baptist Church; Rev. H. K. Freeman, Rev. Joseph Beaman, and J. W. Branson.

Confidence in Management.

The tenor of the addresses indicated a confidence in the present and past managements of the order, and that the present difficulties were due to technicalities that would easily and promptly be straightened out. There are seventy-eight lodges and 1,818 members of the order in the District of Columbia, and the value of its local property is estimated at $80,000.

A suspension of the business of the order was directed in Virginia by the insurance department October 26, and the local insurance department followed suit with an order for the suspension of business here. The Virginia order of suspension forbade the consideration of applications for membership and the initiation of new members within the State while the order remains effective. It added that the order would remain effective until the affairs of the Savings Bank of the True Reformers and of the Reformers' Mercantile and Industrial Association are liquidated, either by order of court or otherwise, or until the money on deposit in the bank and other assets of the Grand United Order of True Reformers in the possession of the bank were returned to the association.

Result Satisfactory.

W. R. Griffin, of the Washington division, said Sunday evening the unanimous vote of the members to stand by each other he regarded as a vote of confidence in the management of the order. The meeting, he said, was called to advise the members of the condition of affairs and to ascertain their sentiment. The result he regarded as entirely satisfactory.

The Public School Athletic League

was successfully launched at a meeting of teachers in the M Street High School Tuesday. The purpose of the League was clearly outlined by E. B. Henderson, to whom the Board of Education gave permission to organize. Assistant Superintendent Bruce presided.

The purpose of the League is to encourage manly participation in athletic sports by the boys of the public schools, especially the elementary schools. Such a league as has been formed will work wonders in the formation of good habits of loyalty and discipline among the boys. The various "stunts" which the boys will be called upon to perform will appeal to all of them—not merely to the record breaker. As it now stands, there are but few athletics, especially within a school, in which all the boys can take part. The only physical training which the boys are now afforded is that in which they go through with the girls of the classroom.

The League will also seek to take hold of the overgrown boys in the graded schools, who are anxious to withdraw because they are overgrown, and provide them with an incentive for further development, mentally and physically. The athletics will appeal to the boys, not from the standpoint of breaking a record made by the exceptional boy, but equalling or surpassing the record (if such it may be called) made by the average boy. Such means will prevent the boys from becoming discouraged. The League, however, does not propose to discriminate against the girls. They will be permitted, under certain restrictions, to engage in games, under the supervision of a female member of the physical training department.

Public School Athletic Leagues are now in operation in the following cities, in connection with the Board of Educations of these cities: New Orleans, Baltimore, Seattle, New York, Newark, Troy, Buffalo, Cleveland, Birmingham, Tacoma, San Francisco, Kansas City and Cincinnati.

The constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, James E. Walker, Supervising Principal of the 13th Division; Vice President, G. C. Wilkinson; Secretary, E. B. Henderson; Treasurer, Miss A. E. Thompson, Principal of the Slater School.

The President appointed the following committees:

Publicity and Printing—J. Moria Saunders, Chairman; J. O. Montgomery, B. C. Dodson, E. H. Lawson, and Miss A. Shorter.

Finance—G. S. Wormley, Chairman; W. A. Hamilton, Eugene Clark, W. B. Hartgrove and R. B. Green.

The next meeting of the League will be held Tuesday next in the study hall of the M Street High School. At that time final plans for the winter will be laid out.
